- Emotionalising Indian Voters
Success has valid reason on its side while failure requires emotions as its justification. - Page 7
- Politics of Election Manifestos
Not only the actionable promises, but also the ideological content of the manifestos deserve scrutiny. - Page 8
- Insidious Infringement of Forest Rights
The draft Indian Forest Act, 2019 is a travesty of basic constitutional rights and principles. - Page 9
- Bad Debt Resolution Hits Judicial Roadblock
With the Supreme Court having declared ultra vires the Reserve Bank of India circular directing banks to pursue bad debt resolution at any cost, the process of making banks alone pay for all-round errors has come to an end. – BY C P Chandrasekhar - Page 10
- Challenges in Water Governance

India's water sector challenges include absence of any initiative to restructure water institutions, a distressed groundwater lifeline, push for large dams, increasing footprint of the urban water sector, etc. Yet, these have not been taken up as electoral issues. – BY Himanshu Thakkar – Page 12

➤ Facilitation and Whistle-blower Protection by Indian Firms

An analysis of the policies related to whistle-blowing among the BSE 30 companies in India indicates an urgent need to develop and enforce corporate policies to protect the whistle-blowers. – BY M V Shivaani, Thiagu Ranganathan – Page 15

➤ Investigating the Hunger Index : Evidence from Karnataka

The Karnataka District Hunger Index formulated using a modified version of Global Hunger Index methodology shows that backward pockets in the state have a higher hunger index, which also holds for socially and economically backward populations. – BY S V Hanagodimath, V B Annigeri – Page 18

➤ Constitutional Rights and Judicial Review

While the contribution of the Supreme Court towards asserting the inviolability of constitutional rights is undeniable, the rightful limits of judicial intervention in the executive and legislative domains need to be questioned. – BY Ashwani Kumar – Page 28

➤ Prevalence of Undernourishment in Indian States

Modifications are suggested on the estimation methodology of the prevalence of undernourishment. It is revealed that about 472 million people in India or 39% of the population, were undernourished in 2011-12 – BY Vikas Rawal, Vaishali Bansal & Prachi Bansal – Page 35

➤ Medical Devices Manufacturing Industry

The market size of medical devices and equipment has been estimated for the period 2010-11 to 2013-14 period, which was found to have accelerated from $2.7 billion to $4 billion, while imports served 70% of the total domestic needs in 2013-14. – BY Pritam Datta, Sakthivel Selvaraj – Page 46

➤ Institutional Exclusion of the Hill Tribes in Manipur

After India's independence, the hill tribes in the North East were protected under the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution, but the Manipur hill tribes were left out. This is a process of institutional exclusion, which has led to the demand for greater autonomy. – BY L Lam Khan Piang – Page 54

- Provincialisation of 'Transformative' Politics
The left and the Dalit political parties put limits on the transformative politics that draws its support and sustenance from the normative ideals available in Karl Marx and B R Ambedkar. These limits spring from the conditions of provincialisation of transformative politics into instrumentalities that are internal to electoral democracy. – BY Samar Kavi - Page 10
- The Realities of Voting in India
The nature of work and consequent socio-economic realities deprive migrant workers within India of their voting rights, while lack of official documentation of internal migration, especially for informal employment, prevents any conscientious policy action. – BY S Irudaya Rajan, Ashwin Kumar - Page 12
- Undermining the Lokpal
The Lokpal law was enacted to set up an independent institution to ensure proper investigation and prosecution into allegations of corruption against public servants. Five years after the law was passed, members were appointed in a manner that undermined public trust in the institution. – BY Anjali Bhardwaj, Amrita Johri – Page 14
- Challenges for Transgender-Inclusive Sanitation
The sanitation needs of the transgender community are addressed on the assumption that the community is a homogeneous group. However, designing transgender-inclusive sanitation requires a deeper examination of the role of caste, gender and age within the transgender community. – BY Durba Biswas – Page 19
- The Neglect of Ambedkar : Perennial Problem of Sociology in India
Indian sociologists and historians have retained a certain foundational bias and blindness regarding caste. The neglect of B R Ambedkar has been part of a strange refusal to acknowledge the political in caste. – BY Manash Firaq Bhattacharjee – Page 27
- Waste Management and Extended Producer Responsibility
The E-Waste (Management) Rules, 2016, Plastic Waste Management Rules, 2016 and Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016 are compared with the first ever rules based on extended producer responsibility in India : the Batteries (Management and Handling) Rules, 2001. – BY Yamini Gupta, Samraj Sahay – Page 34
- Theory Underlying Labour Market Flexibility
The theory underlying the labour market flexibility argument in India is identified and critically examined. A review of the empirical studies reveals that this argument is based on rigid real wages in turn explained by hiring and firing costs. – BY Anmitra Roychowdhury – Page 41
- Criminalisation of Bengali Muslims

The lives of Bengali Muslims in a slum in Jaipur changed overnight after the bomb blasts of 2008. Through narratives gathered on field, it is shown how the criminalization and dehumanization of a community was made possible. – BY Kanchan Gandhi – Page 49
